

Housing Market Studies

Housing Market Research

Bowen National Research conducts real estate market analyses on a variety of housing and commercial development alternatives in markets throughout the United States. Ranging from preliminary market assessments or full market feasibility studies, our firm's level of analysis is customized to meet your specific needs. Please click a link below to learn more about our experience, the clients we serve and our approach to meeting your real estate market research needs.

Services

Bowen National Research applies a hands-on approach with every market assessment. The company maintains a staff of in-house researchers and market analysts, each experienced and knowledgeable in the aspects that go into a thorough and complete market analysis. Because each market can have unique factors, our staff is trained to identify and evaluate each factor and its impact on the overall market. Read more about our experience or browse our statewide housing surveys.

GIS Services

Whether you are in need of assistance with site selection, a mapping study to identify customer support and competition, a customized demographic analysis, or a more advanced predictive modeling or data reduction analysis, Bowen National Research can help.

For more information please visit us
<http://www.bowennational.com>